

| FEATURES |

Inside the Breakthrough Starshot Mission to Alpha Centauri

By Ann Finkbeiner

A New Model for Defeating Cancer: CAR T Cells

By Avery D. Posey, Carl H. June and Bruce L. Levine

What Inequality Does to the Brain

By Kimberly G. Noble

Fossil Pigments Reveal the True Colors of Dinosaurs

By Jakob Vinther

The Search for a New Test of Artificial Intelligence

By Gary Marcus

A Beetle Is Destroying U.S. Corn, So Scientists Are Punching at the Insect's Genes

By Hannah Nordhaus

Full Genome Sequencing for Newborns Raises Questions

By Bonnie Rochman

| ONLINE EXCLUSIVES |

How Private Is Your "Voice Assistant" Device?

By David Pogue

More Book Recommendations for March

By THE EDITORS

Aviation in 1917: The State of the Industry and Science [Slide Show]

By Dan Schlenoff

| DEPARTMENTS |

FROM THE EDITOR

To Boldly Go to the Nearest Star and the Distant Past

LETTERS

Readers Respond to the November 2016 Issue

ADVANCES

The Surprisingly Early Settlement of the Tibetan Plateau

3-D Printing Modification Yields Adorable Micro-Tools

Is Fusion Energy in Our Future?

Get Your STD Results in Minutes

Labs Can Now Grow Your Guts

Make Earth Great Again!--Here's How

See the Best Fossil Octopus Ever Found

We Mapped the Latest Science, in Case You Missed It

How to Get Elephants to Buzz Off

This Battery Runs on the Hidden Power of Estuaries

FORUM

Take Nukes Off a Short Fuse

Our Voting System Is Hackable by Foreign Powers

THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH

When Breathing Goes Awry

TECHNOFILES

Your Echo Is Listening, Which Could Someday Lead to an Invasion of Your Privacy

RECOMMENDED

Majestic Owls, Great Lakes, Food Crisis and Other New Science Books

SKEPTIC

Artificial Intelligence Is Not a Threat--Yet

ANTI GRAVITY

Genes for Smelling Asparagus Metabolites Determine Urine Luck

50, 100 & 150 YEARS AGO

A Century Ago: Designing and Selling the Flying Car

GRAPHIC SCIENCE

How Old Observations Are Building Hubble's Legacy