

| FEATURES |

How One Memory Attaches to Another

By Alcino J. Silva

Is Dark Matter Made of Black Holes?

By Juan García-Bellido and Sébastien Clesse

"Positive Cities" Can Improve the Planet as Well as People's Lives

By William McDonough

Sustainable Cities Put Waste to Work

By Michael E. Webber

How Driverless Cars Will Transform Cities

By Carlo Ratti and Assaf Biderman

Why the Most Powerful Treatment for Diabetes Turns Out to Be Surgery

By Francesco Rubino

Does Dancing Just Feel Good, or Did It Help Early Humans Survive?

By Thea Singer

| ONLINE EXCLUSIVES |

Is Lip-Synching a Form of Cheating?

By David Pogue

| DEPARTMENTS |

FROM THE EDITOR

Designing the City of Tomorrow Today

LETTERS

Readers Respond to the February and March 2017 Issues

ADVANCES

Amazon Rain Forest May Have Once Been a Giant Marine Lake

Mysterious Bear Dance Explained

Why Some Mice Seem to Make Bad Parents

Brain Activity during Sleep Can Predict When Someone Is Dreaming

Why It's So Hard to Keep a Secret

Acree of Pristine Landscapes Declined Significantly So Far This Century

Fuzzy Fibers Could Help Rockets Take the Heat

Can Plants Hear?

In Case You Missed It

Hunt for Flight MH370 Takes Searchers into Uncharted Territory

Grandma's Little Robot

FORUM

Raising Alcohol Taxes Can Curtail Assaults and Suicides

THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH

Do Probiotics Really Work?

THE SCIENCE AGENDA

Robust Emergency Fund Needed to Respond to Future Disease Outbreaks

TECHNOFILES

Should Artists Reveal How Much They Let Technology Make Creative Choices?

FORUM

Raising Alcohol Taxes Can Curtail Assaults and Suicides

THE SCIENCE OF HEALTH

Do Probiotics Really Work?

THE SCIENCE AGENDA

Robust Emergency Fund Needed to Respond to Future Disease Outbreaks

TECHNOFILES

Should Artists Reveal How Much They Let Technology Make Creative Choices?

RECOMMENDED

Bug Lovers, Earth's Many Apocalypses, the Surprising Minds of Vegetative Patients and Other New Science Books

SKEPTIC

Why the "You" in an Afterlife Wouldn't Really Be You

ANTI GRAVITY

2 New Books Look at Evolution via Teeth and Tunnels

50, 100 & 150 YEARS AGO

Tennessee's "Monkey Law" Finally Repealed, 50 Years Ago

GRAPHIC SCIENCE

Monday, 8 A.M.: Time to Have a Baby